

6th Victor Jones Memorial Lecture on Metropolitan Governance

Why

the Bay Area Needs to Act Like a

City- State

Paul Saffo

- Visionary Futurist and Author
- Managing Director at Discern Analytics
- Adjunct Professor of Engineering at Stanford University

Following the examples of Singapore and Hong Kong, can the Bay Area chart its own path to regional success, despite the political gridlock in Sacramento, and achieve a sustainable future by acting more like a city-state in taking bold steps to achieve pragmatic solutions to its regional problems?

Wednesday, February 23, 2011

4–6 p.m.

UCB Alumni House, Toll Room

Free and open to the public

Sponsored by UC Berkeley's Institute of Governmental Studies & Travers Political Science Department, and ABAG

<http://igs.berkeley.edu/events/jones>

